Question # 4

The Leaders in Technology (LIT) Program at CES brings together more than 200 elected and appointed leaders from federal, state, and local governments for an immersive look at the technologies shaping the future. The program gives policymakers and their staff a unique opportunity to move beyond briefings and experience emerging technologies firsthand, while engaging directly with the innovators, companies, and experts developing them.

At CES 2027, invited Members of Congress and their staff will explore a broad range of transformative technologies, including artificial intelligence, autonomous vehicles, robotics, advanced mobility, digital health, smart home and connected technologies, sustainability, and climate technology. Through demonstrations, discussions, and direct engagement with technology leaders, participants will gain firsthand perspectives on both the opportunities these innovations present and the policy considerations they raise.

The LIT Program offers a timely and valuable opportunity for policymakers to deepen their understanding of rapidly evolving technologies and their real-world applications. The insights gained can help inform legislative priorities, policy development, and oversight responsibilities as emerging technologies increasingly shape the economy, public services, national competitiveness, and everyday life.
